

Young bakers on rise

DEBORAH JACKSON

@ Banksmeadow

IS it a struggle finding ways to keep your kids entertained? Are they constantly looking for adventure or wanting to try new things? Look no further than Dare2 Courses.

Banksmeadow's Brasserie Bread director Michael Klausen said he hosted bread-making classes for children, families and adults.

"Doing a course can be more than just a chance to personally enjoy learning new skills and being creative," he said. "People use our courses as a time to bond with family members and share a mutual passion, which they can't do in the same way during their usual busy lives."

Dare2 Courses has a comprehensive website for anybody looking to learn a new skill or further develop an old one. Visit dare2courses.com.au.

Ryan Ho-Shon gives a helping hand to Brasserie Bread's Nurul 'Yudha' Huda.

Picture: ELENOR TEDENBORG - PP445409